A Terrible Indian Killer.

The man who has been in the Black Hills, says the Black Hills Tribune, and returned, is a big gun at the village drug store, and feels called upon to tell the truth when narrating his adventures. Such a man, named Carl, was telling the other night how many Indians he had killed during his three months' residence in the Hills.

After he had talked half an hour one of the listeners, who had kept track of the number killed, exhibited the figures.

"I find," he exclaimed, "that you killed 1,500 savages in three months."

"Is that all?" exclaimed the unashamed Indian killer. "Why, I believe you have left out a week's work there somewhere."

"If you had such good luck killing Indians why didn't you stay there?" demanded another suspicious listener.

"Well, the truth is, gentlemen, I was afraid of running my left eye. I squinted along my gun barrel so much that my face was being drawn out of shape, and the sight was so far gone that I had to be led about by a dog."

"And you killed Indians while in that condition?"

"I did; though I've always felt a little mean about it. I couldn't see to above, and so I ran down and kicked 'em to death. It wasn't mainly in me, and I want to ask the forgiveness of you gentlemen, here and now."

There was a long spell of appalling silence, and then some one said that Eph Francis had bought a new coat dog.
